HIGH COST OF FIRE WASTE

Is the Cause of Much of the High Cost of Living

Our fire waste is in a measure responsible for the high cost of living. For it merges with the cost of everything we eat, drink and wear. Year after year $250,000,000 worth of buildings and merchandise are wasted by fire; therefore it is easy to see that the very foundation of our commerce is being consumed by the "Fire god." Tomorrow you may read of another San Francisco or Baltimore conflagration. Can we stand such loss in the present condition of our financial affairs? The financial depression throughout this country is put at the door of the war, but can we not, to a large extent, trace this back to 1906 and 1907 when between two or three hundred millions of securities were thrown on the market by insurance companies to meet the payment of losses? Another conflagration, such as at San Francisco, at this time would cause the worst panic of modern times, place a majority of manufacturing and financial institutions in the hands of receivers, throw thousands out of employment and cause untold hardships and suffering. In the past we have at least been fortunate in having the big conflagrations occur in periods of mild weather. Picture, if you can, the terrible sufferings and loss of life at a conflagration in one of our large cities in the dead of winter; of blind, sick and dying, the aged and the infants driven from their homes, grand or humble as they may be, to face the wintry blasts in one mass of feeble humanity. Let every man, woman and child become a committee of one to fight against such a catastrophe. Start now to clean up your home, the office, your place of business; discuss the subject with your family, employees and business associates; give the "fire prevention" just a fraction of the time given to the discussion of the war and watch the results and effects.

TOWNS SHOULD TAKE NOTICE

Every fire insurance man knows that a large number of disastrous fires in towns and villages are caused by the burning of trash, paper, and other combustibles on the street and in the alleys, and that but a limited number of cities and towns have made any provision whatever for the safeguarding, either by ordinance or otherwise, of the property of the town from such fires.

In some places merchants use wire fencing, filling a container constructed from such fencing with paper, etc., and setting it afire. The charred paper will blow around the street and into alleys, possibly still burning. Any way such makeshifts are viewed they are dangerous.

In other places old discarded steam boilers are set on end and the merchant fills the shells with paper and rubbish, setting it afire at the top. The heat causes a draft, and the wind whips around, scattering the burning material and embers all over town.

But merchants and property owners are realizing that the burning of paper and rubbish is a danger that must be safeguarded. Some municipalities compel the burning of paper, etc., in brick or concrete receptacles especially constructed for the purpose, either by the city or individuals, as the wisdom of the city council may decide.—Hartford Agent.

FIRE LOSS A TAX

A tax of $2 a year to pay for what we burn is a heavy one. It is equivalent to $15 a year for the head of each family of four or five. The United States Geological Survey, in its fire bulletin covering the fire losses for a single year, 1907, figures that, on actual property losses of $215,084,709 for that year, the people really paid a tax of $458,485,000, because of the excess premiums over insurance paid, and the heavy cost of fire protection due to bad construction. This tax exceeded the total value of the gold, silver, copper, and petroleum produced in the country in that year. To emphasize the loss more specifically, the buildings consumed, if placed on lots of 65 feet front, would line both sides of a street extending from New York to Chicago. This enormous street of desolation and ruin would be filled with the head and disabled. At every thousand feet there would be an injured person, and every three-quarters of a mile the charred remains of one killed by fire.

All the fire loss is final, absolute, and irrecoverable—not one dollar of it ever "comes back," is ever restored or replaced. It is a direct and heavy tax, averaging $15 per year for every family, and for this sum not the slightest thing is received in return.

THIS MEANS YOU

Every household should make a personal inspection of his residence and other buildings for the discovery of possible fire dangers.

Look at the chimneys, especially at this season of the year. Has the mortar in the upper parts decayed either from the action of the weather or gases from the fuel used? Defective chimneys are a frequent cause of fires at this time, and are always a menace.

How do you dispose of ashes? Never let ashes come in contact with wood, even though they are apparently cold.

Is there any rubbish lying around awaiting only a spark to start a fire.

Look at your gas connections and remove that rubber hose, if you are using one.

If electricity is used, examine the wiring.

See that stovepipes do not pass through wooden partitions or come near wood at any point.

Worth Their Weight in Gold.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets and found them to be just as represented, a quick relief for headaches, dizzy spells and other symptoms denoting a torpid liver and a disordered condition of the digestive organs. They are worth their weight in gold," writes Miss Clara A. Driggs, Elba, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv. d&w

Non-Conformist.

Trout, according to the common law of angling, are addicted to dark flies on bright days and bright flies on dark days. What is there to be said, therefore, for the judgment, the common sense or the eyesight of a three-quarter pound fish who rose in a foot and a half of crystal water and seized avidly upon a large "white miller," the time being high noon and not a cloud in the sky?

If your child is pale and sickly, picks at the nose, starts in the sleep and grinds the teeth while sleeping. It is a sure sign of worms. A remedy for these parasites will be found in White's Cream Vermifuge. It not only clears out the worms, but it restores health and cheerfulness. Price 25c per bottle. Sold by Owl Drug Store.—Adv. d&w

Man's Real Worth.

The prevailing fault of our time is the estimating of manhood by the accidents of life, rather than by its essentials. Not what a man has or what happens to him; not wealth, nor noble blood, nor crowns, nor titles; but the things that are in him and shining through him—his thoughts, motives, springs of action; these constitute the man.—D. J. Burrell.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION

It is certainly surprising that any woman will endure the miserable feelings caused by biliousness and constipation, when relief is so easily had and at so little expense. Mrs. Chas. Peck, Gates, N. Y., writes: "About a year ago I used two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and they cured me of biliousness and constipation." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv. d&w
